PROJECTS

Chrysanthemum Disease Recognition and Pesticide Recommendation

- Our major project involved Chrysanthemum disease recognition and pesticide recommendation. We developed both a web application and an Android app for this project. It utilized various front-end and back-end technologies, Android development, and machine learning models, specifically Support Vector Machines (SVM). Python code was employed for predicting diseases using these ML models and recommending appropriate pesticides.

Crop Diseases Prediction

- Developed a web application and it utilized various front-end and machine learning models
- python code is employed for prediction diseases using these Machine Learning models.
