PROJECTS

Mental health detector using machine learning Created a web-based mental health detection system that predicts emotional states (such as happiness, sadness, anger, etc.) by analyzing user replies and facial expressions. To evaluate mental health, the research makes use of machine learning algorithms for image identification and sentiment analysis.

Exploratory Data Analysis on Titanic Dataset

Technologies Used: Python, Pandas, NumPy, Matplotlib, Seaborn, Jupyter Notebook Performed Exploratory Data Analysis (EDA) on the Titanic dataset to identify patterns in passenger survival based on factors such as age, gender, class, and fare. Used statistical methods and visualizations to analyze the dataset and draw meaningful conclusions.
